Spain - Balearic Islands - Majorca - Lluc Alcari

4 persons — 350 sqm — under floor heating — service twice a week

Planted patio — 1 living/dining room — 1 fully equipped kitchen — 1 double bedroom with bathroom/shower/WC ensuite, fireplace and stereo — 1 double bedroom — 1 guestroom — 1 shower/WC — roof-deck with sea views

The landmarked town Lluc Alcari is located at the north-west coast, 2 kilometers north of Deya. The tower and the adjoining house hail from the 15th century and used to be the summer residence of the archbishop of Palma. From the tower they fought the pirates and it is the only tower on Majorca that has not been captured by them. Once a person steps through the big gate of the property, one will end up in a large canopied entrance area with a shady dining table. The planted patio is arranged right behind it. From here one can reach the living and the dining area. Stereos for indoor and outdoor, many tapes and books are available at the house. The kitchen with all its machines and appliances is located in the adjoining cupola arch – between the indoor and outdoor dining area.

The bedroom and the ensuite bathroom, with shower and tub, can be reached over a perched staircase. The room is arranged like a living room, with an open fireplace, TV and stereo. From the 2x2 meter large bed one can see the ocean. There is a studio on the same level, from which one can get into the tower. From the desk one can enjoy the beautiful view over the sea. A small staircase leads up to the roof-deck with its four cosy lounge chairs and a table. The stunning views over the ocean are available year round and during the summer one can enjoy the light breeze. A spiral staircase leads to the two guestrooms and another bathroom. In the upper room of the tower, 14 windows
